There is no expense to the district for this endeavor. All money is either raised during fundraising activities, or paid by the parents. The bus fee is also included in this.

We would like to thank the P.T.O. for their contribution of $25 per student.

Blossoming Readers and Writers

Spring is truly in the air! Like the beautiful flowers in bloom our students are blossoming into young writers and readers! Students Chase Smith, Navid Cole, David Philo, and Jessica Philo (pictured above) are proud to share their published ocean stories that they created in partnership with their reading buddies.

During the month of March, national reading month, Ms. Leff's kindergarten students paired up with Mrs. Kjolhede's 2nd and 3rd grade students as reading buddies. Mrs. Kjolhede's students became reading buddy mentors to teach reading and writing skills to the kindergartners. As the culminating activity, the reading buddies created ocean books together. Mrs. Kjolhede's students guided the kindergartners to co-create stories about the ocean. They then published the stories and added beautiful illustrations! The published books are now proudly displayed in the school's showcase for the month of April!

Reading Buddies Have the WRITE Stuff!

From the Superintendent's Desk....

April 27, 2008

Dear Parents and Students;

Well spring has finally sprung and the long hard winter is over. The snow days took a toll on all of us. John Graham, the district's Maintenance and Transportation Director, and I were up most mornings all winter watching the news and checking roads worried about the safety of our students. I will tell you, it is by far the hardest part of our jobs. We were so happy that the winter came to a close without any major accidents or mishaps with our students. Now that spring is here it brings its own worries, severe weather, driving to and from prom, and most of all the Graduation season. Hopefully the students are careful and we don't have any problems.

As most of you know we missed eleven days this winter due to ice and snow. The State of Michigan forgave five of those days and the district had three and half days built into its calendar. That left three and half days we were required to make up. The Board of Education and the Administration made the decision to make up the days rather than add time to the school day. I know other district's have added time to the school day rather than make up the school days, and those were tough decisions they had to make for various reasons. We are confident that it is better educationally for students to make up the school days that were cancelled rather than adding ten minutes to the school day.

Once we made the decision to make up the days we worked with the teachers to alter the school calendar. We needed to make sure we met the State of Michigan's required hours of instruction which is 1098 hours per school year. To inform parents and students of the changes we made to the end of the year calendar we placed an article in the Aggie Express. I also wanted to send a letter home with each child to make sure everyone was informed. The following are the changes to the end of the year calendar. June 6th will be a full day of instruction instead of the half day that was originally planned. We will also be meeting for full days of instruction on June 9th, 10th, and 11th. The teachers and administrators will be working hard to making sure we do not waste any time preparing our students for future success.

With "Aggie" Pride

Precalc.and Integrated 4 Celebrate PI Day & Einstein's Birthday

On March 14, 2008, the Precalculus and Integrated Math 4 classes of Beal City High School celebrated PI Day and Albert Einstein's birthday.

PI, the irrational number, beginning with the numbers 3.14, is celebrated on 3/14 of every year. PI, represented by the Greek letter, is the ratio of a circle's circumference to its diameter.

Albert Einstein was born on March 14, 1879. Today, he would be 129 years old. Einstein made many important scientific discoveries including the formula $E = mc^2$, the theory of relativity, and proved that the speed of light is constant.

After singing happy birthday to Einstein and seeing a demonstration of the value of PI using an apple pie, students feasted on pie and ice cream. Students competed in a trivia contest and created a bulletin board celebrating Einstein. There was also a competition to see who could memorize the most digits of the number PI. Angela Gross was the winner, memorizing and reciting 234 digits of the number, setting a new school record.

Featured Foster Grandparent

Linda Billings

Grandma Linda Billings is a foster grandparent at Mayes Elementary School working primarily with kindergarten students. Her son, Austin, is a director and producer in Los Angeles working for MTV, Turner Classic Movies and American Movie Classics among other ventures. Austin is expecting his first child in May. Laura, her daughter, works for A&D In-Home Health Care in Mt. Pleasant.

Laura has two boys, Santana and Joshua, and one girl, Desarae. As Grandma Linda puts it, she has “three grandchildren of my own and 18 grandchildren here at school”. She also lives with a rabbit, kitten and Boxer dog at her daughter’s house. Some of her leisure time is spent helping her grandchildren with their school work.

Grandma Linda graduated from Rosary High School, a Catholic all girls school, in 1963. Upon graduation, she took business classes at Wayne Business Institute where she received a certificate. Grandma Linda has held a variety of positions. She worked in Breckenridge for four years as an Adult Education Daycare Supervisor and as a policy writer for two lawyers in Detroit. She was a switchboard operator and secretary for American Motors in their Rambler Division. While still in Detroit, Grandma Linda worked in the Service Department at the Philco Subsidiary of Ford Motor Company. She was also a secretary at Ford Headquarters in Dearborn. Grandma Linda moved to Mt. Pleasant to help care for her elderly mother. She continued to care for senior citizens at Primary In-Home Care for Adults. You may have even seen her working as a waitress in a café in Breckenridge. Her future plans, fortunately for us, include continuing to work with the students at Mayes Elementary School, even though her son wants her to move to California.

Grandma Linda has a variety of interests. She’s not fussy when it comes to food, but loves sushi. She enjoys reading religious books and participating in activities with her ladies’ group at church. Grandma Linda listens to country music and music from the 50s, 60s, 70s, and 80s-her eras, as she puts it. A little known fact is that she took piano lessons for four years and played the piano at church. Bowling and traveling are other pastimes Grandma enjoys. She has visited Georgia, Texas, Indiana, New York and California just to name a few destinations. Grandma Linda claims the highlights of her year have been getting the job at Mayes Elementary School where she has made new friends and picking on Mr. Klapp!

LINKS Trip Another Success

All of the Beal City LINKS travelers have now returned to their homes and their routines. We have brought with us many memories and impressions from our experience in Germany that we will be sharing with family and friends. Mrs Cleveland and Mrs Miller would like to thank all the people that helped us prepare for this Spring's trip. Mrs Heintz, Ms Christensen, and Mrs Doyle were very generous with their time and good advice in recalling their trips to Germany. They helped us generate many ideas to help prepare for a successful trip.

While in Germany the students not only visited the school, they toured the town of Ludwigslust, where they had the opportunity to see a castle, and a Greco-Roman church. Many of the students also visited the Baltic Sea, a glacially formed lake, and had the opportunity to see some of the local night life. Tours of Berlin, and museums in Hagenow provided a fascinating experience for everyone. Now that they've returned, ask those who went about their experience.

Visit www.bealcityschools.net for Mrs. Cleveland's blog of the trip.

Keep Your Children Mentally and Physically Fit

Healthy kids – that’s what every family wants. Here are some important things to think about in terms of your child’s mental and physical health.

Mental Health

They need their sleep. Children need 10 hours of sleep each night to be well rested and ready to do their best. Keep the TV out of their bedroom and have a firm “lights of” policy, with a little flexibility on Friday and Saturday nights. Without enough sleep, they simply can’t cope with the physical and mental work of being a kid.

Keep the lines open. As busy as you are, it is essential to be available when your children have something they need to talk to you about. Set up a code word, something silly, like “banana,” that they can mention to you when they have something troubling them. Let them know that the code word isn’t to be used lightly – like when a sibling is bothering them. When they do call you aside for something serious, give them your full attention.

“Counseling” is not a shameful word.

School counselors offer wonderful services to children and their families facing tough times. Think of this – each year in school is brand new to your child, with entirely new issues to deal with, but the counselors at the school have the gift of perspective. They’ve seen hundreds of kids go through the same “growing up” processes, which means that they can help your child to see that everyone has challenges at one time or another, and there are lots of ways to fix them.

Eating and Drinking

Ditch the junk. We all need a minimum of five servings a day of fruits and vegetables, so stock up on fresh fruit and 100 percent fruit juice drinks. If your kids eat school cafeteria food, encourage them to take as many fruits and vegetables as they are allowed to have – and eat them before they start to eat their main dish. If you pack their lunches, stop including cookies and high-fat snacks. Substitute pretzels or light popcorn and fresh or dried fruit.

Watch what you drink. Water is absolutely the best thirst quencher around – zero calories, always available, and free. Sodas sweetened with sugar or syrups provide hundreds of empty calories. And, as great as milk is for growing bodies (adults too), it’s important to choose low-fat or fat-free milk instead of whole milk.

Physical Health

Move it. Go for family walks, runs or bike rides several days a week. Have a family fitness “club,” charting everyone’s progress on everything from shooting hoops to jumping rope. If possible, join a local YMCA or community fitness center. Signing up for classes or sports clinics makes it easier to remember to work out.

Keep your home smoke-free. If you or other adults in your household smoke, do your children a lifelong favor – never smoke in the house or in a car with them. Second-hand smoke can lead to a number of serious health problems, from breathing difficulties to cancer. Quit if you can. Cut back as much as you can. And do everything you can to keep your children from ever taking up the habit.

Don’t overlook checkups. Fluoride treatments and early detection of cavities or gum problems can save your children toothaches and other dental problems. The same goes for doctor’s appointments – an ounce of prevention really is a pound of cure. A national program is in place to help families who can’t afford medical insurance for their children. See your school nurse or state health agency for details.

There’s so much to worry about when you have children at home. But remember this: Keeping them healthy – both mentally and physically – is your most important job.
